Q: What is the primary objective of the Lucent Global application?

A: The provided context does not furnish information regarding the main purpose of the Lucent Global application.

Q: What markets is Lucent Global targeting?

A: Lucent Global is a leading industry player that expressly targets three major types of clients with their range of high-quality, innovative solutions. Firstly, they target telecommunication carriers, which typically includes a broad array of companies involved in the provision of telecommunication services, such as mobile network operators, fixed-line phone service providers and satellite TV operators, among others. Their products and services help these carriers to deliver uninterrupted and efficient services to their customers.

Secondly, they also focus their resources to cater to Internet Service Providers (ISPs). These are entities or companies that provide services such as Internet access, domain registration, website hosting, and more. Given the digital revolution gripping the world, these providers require world-class solutions for delivering effective services, which is precisely what Lucent Global offers.

Lastly, they also firmly target enterprises that require delivery of voice, data, and video solutions. These businesses need constant and uninterrupted connectivity for their daily operations. They heavily rely on voice, data, and video solutions for their communications, operations, customer interaction, and other services. Therefore, Lucent Global tends to be their choice because of the superior quality and reliability of their offerings. By concentrating on these three sectors, Lucent Global continues to expand its reach and enhance its reputation in the market.
